Unwashed Italy.

The table linen is all homespun, and good of its kind, but rather coarse. As in the matter of chemises, it is thought well to have an immense quantity. I remember being struck on one occasion with the fact that the table-cloth was marked in four numbers. It was at the wedding of the eldest daughter, and a cupboard full of linen the mother had with her "corredo" had been opened for the first time.

These hoards of linen make it possible to go on without a wash-up for a very long time. Washing is a yearly ceremony. It takes place in the spring, when a procession of carts convey the contents of various cupboards down to the river, if there is one in the vicinity; if there is not, to the nearest mill-stream. This system of washing but once a year no doubt saves time and trouble; but it has its disadvantages, especially when extended to the members of the family themselves. In cold weather much washing of the person is considered to be dangerous to health, and my barbarity in subjecting a young baby to a daily bath during the winter, excited almost as much virtuous indignation as my culpable neglect of the "fascia," so necessary to keep the leg straight. On receiving a neighbor into the house for a week, I thought it incumbent on me, although it was the dead of winter, to provide him with all conveniences for washing, but these attentions were lost upon him; and my astonishment when the housemaid thought fit to inform me, in her dramatic way, that neither soap, water nor towel had been touched, was, perhaps, no greater than his own at finding these useless things provided. "The signora says to me," begins Marietta, "have you put soap into the room of that gentleman?" "Sissignora." "A bath?" "Sissignora." "Two towels?" "Sissignora, sissignora, ma, signora, non toccati! ne l'una, ne l'altra!"

It is not only in the matter of washing that Italian winter habits differ from ours. Fires are considered unwholesome, but air is excluded as much as possible; the doors and windows kept tight shut day and night; draughts sedulously avoided. Great-coats, hats and comforters are worn by the men in doors, while the women swathe their heads in wool, put on several gowns one atop of another, and sit with their hands in muffs and their feet on a "scaldino." Although no lady ever goes out without making an elaborate toilet, indoors a dressing-gown, often in the most dilapidated condition, is all that is considered necessary. To wear the same gown indoors as out of doors is a thing not thought of, and immediately on returning to the house after a walk the dressing-gown is resumed. In the outdoor costume great efforts are made to keep up with the fashion-books, and engravings which relate thereto are much studied, but seldom with any great success.—The Cornhill.

The Advantages of Utterism.

The notion that grew up about six years ago that every one ought to be æsthetic, and that every one who followed certain recipes could be so, and gain healthy enjoyment of art by merely living in a certain atmosphere, was one that would scarcely have needed refutation had it not been the genuine expression, though in an exaggerated form, of the reaction from the Philistinism of the earlier part of the century. At the bottom of the sham sentiment and fashionable foolishness, which, as it were, armor plated the æsthetic movement, there was a real desire for a little more beauty in the surroundings of life, and perhaps even a wish for a less material view of life itself. Possibly the weakest stripling who pored over a lily in a glass of water was as estimable a spectacle as "the First Gentleman in Europe" being hoisted into his inexpressibles by half a dozen valets, and the ladies who waved peacock fans slowly in the dim light of sage-green drawing rooms would have compared favorably in all but complexion, with their prototypes of the Regency. At all events, both the male and female æsthetic had some faint notion of an ideal—not wholly selfish, not wholly base—and, though the ideal was as nebulous as the atmosphere of their boudoirs, it was sufficient to prevent their being wholly contemptible. Unlike Kingsley's maiden, they did no "noble things," but dreamed "them all long;" and, though their dreams were irritating to others—at least, when they issued in action—they in the end worked a considerable change. It would be difficult now for any one, even buying furniture or domestic utensils of any sort, to avoid becoming possessed of a considerable number of objects which were really good in form or color, and the importation of really beautiful fabrics and embroideries from the East has increased enormously. It is almost as common to see a bit of Rhodian embroidery in a drawing-room now as it was to see a piece of Berlin wool-work a dozen years ago, and the houses are few and between, in London, at least, who have not a bit of Japanese art, whether it be on paper, lacquer, bronze, or silk, lighting up some odd corner. And good, too, has been done to painting, indirectly, by making artists feel that the sympathy of a considerable mass of the public is with them, and so encouraging them to take heart of grace to work steadily in their own way.—Spectator.

How Gold is Hoarded.

An additional, and by no means adequately appreciated, cause of the stringency of money is the growth of the passion for hoarding gold among the lower classes with the increase of prosperity. Our immense foreign population does not crave half as much for paper money as it does for gold. Some of them—the Italians, the Austrians, for instance—had some sad experiences with paper money at home. They don't know anything about the solidity of greenbacks, bank notes, bonds, and savings banks. What they are anxious to get is a gold piece, and the moment they get it they hide it. Nothing but the opportunity of buying at a bargain land, cattle, or a house, ever brings these gold pieces out again. It has been calculated that some $200,000,000 have thus been abstracted from the circulation during the last three years of growing prosperity throughout the continent.

Women represent a very important factor in this hoarding process. A woman of almost any European nationality prefers a gold coin to a piece of clothing, a piece of furniture, or anything else—except, possibly, a piece of jewelry. An old Frenchman told me the other day that he avoids ever going home with a gold piece in his pocket, for he is sure that his wife would steal it at night and try to persuade him next morning that the coin must have rolled out of his pocket. "Yet she is a very honest woman," added he. "She would never touch the bank notes, but her passion for hoarding gold is invincible. I don't mind it, though, for she will give it all back if a rainy day comes.—New York Sun.

HEALTH NOTES.

[From Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.]

NEVER lean the back upon anything that is cold.

NEVER begin a journey until breakfast has been eaten.

KEEP the back, especially between the shoulder blades, well covered; also the chest well protected.

MILK which is slightly acid, and buttermilk, produce in some individuals a hypnotic (sleepy) effect.

A SMALL cup of warm milk containing a teaspoonful of lime-water may be given frequently in cases of "bowel complaint."

NEVER omit regular bathing; for unless the skin is an active condition the cold will close the pores and favor congestion and other diseases.

OF ONE hundred infants suckled by their mothers eighteen died during the first year, while of the same number suckled by wet nurses, thirty died.

WHEN hoarse, speak as little as possible until it is recovered from, else the voice may be permanently lost or difficulties of the throat may be produced.

AN INDUSTRIOUS German collector of statistics has found that while the average life among the "well to-do" is fifty years, among the poor it is only thirty-two.

MERELY warm the back by a fire, and never continue keeping the back exposed to the heat after it has become comfortably warm. To do otherwise is debilitating.

WHEN going from a warm atmosphere to a colder one, keep the mouth closed, so that the air may be warmed by its passage through the nose, ere it reaches the lungs.

NEVER stand still in cold weather, especially after taking a slight degree of exercise; and always avoid standing upon the ice or snow, or where the person is exposed to the cold wind.

DR. JOHN A. GRISCOM successfully completed a fast a la Tanner (self-imposed) of forty-five days, loosing fifty pounds in weight, thus confirming Dr. Letheby's estimate that an active man must consume about a pound and a fifth of aliment per day.

THE proper ventilation of our schoolhouses is one of the most important questions of the day. Cold feet, hot head and hands, and consequent lassitude and headache, is the common complaint of many of the children in the crowded, ill-ventilated class-rooms.

A CHILD of Erin was ordered by his physician to put a mustard plaster on his chest. When the patient called next day, without any benefit to report, it was ascertained that he had applied the plaster to his trunk or clothes chest. Moral—Doctors should give very explicit directions.

DR. ANDREW CLARK, of London, says of alcoholic beverages that in a perfect state of health there is absolutely no benefit to be derived from their use, and that as he goes through the wards of his hospital he concludes that seven of every ten cases owe their ill-health to moderate drinking.

REV. CHAS. F. DEEMS tells of a young man who is constantly at war with his appetite for liquor, though he never permits himself to take a drop. Neither his father nor grandfather were addicted to its use, but his great grandfather was a habitual drunkard. Thus are the sins of the father visited upon the children unto the third generation. Dr. Deems says of this case of hereditary impulse, "I think it is extraordinary only in the perfect resistance which he has made to his strong inclination."

FOOD is an agent of tremendous power. Feed mankind with the same science that birds, kine, and horses are fed—to wit, on their natural food—and then we may look for the healthy results obtained with those animals. Dairymen know how to feed for health and milk. Hostlers know how to feed their horses, and ladies their canaries. They all seek to give the normal, natural food of the animal under their care. Now, if man would treat his own race as he treats his animals, we think human nervous systems would not show such signs of weakness.

Wedding Anniversary.

The day was kept rather as a fast than a feast, enabling Mrs. Wilfer to hold a sombre, darkling state, which exhibited that oppressive woe an in her choicest colors.

"The mind naturally fails," said Mrs. Wilfer, "into a reverie, or shall I say into a retrospect, on a wedding day like this. Papa and mamma were unquestionably tall. I have rarely seen a finer woman than my mother; never than my father. It was one of mamma's cherished hopes that I should become united to a tall member of society. It may have been a weakness, but, if so, it was equally the weakness of King Frederick, of Prussia. Mamma would appear to have had an indefinable foreboding of what afterwards happened, for she would frequently urge upon me 'Not a little man. Promise me, my child, not a little man. Never, never marry a little man.' Papa would also remark to me, 'that a family of whales must not ally themselves to sprats.' His company was eagerly sought, as may be supposed, by the wits of the day, and our house was their continual resort. Among the most prominent members of the circle was a gentleman measuring six feet four in hight. This gentleman was so obliging as to honor me with attentions which I could not fail to understand. I immediately announced to my parents that his attentions were misplaced and I could not favor his suit. They inquired, was he too tall? I replied it was not the stature, but the intellect that was too lofty. I well remember mamma's clasping her hands, and exclaiming: 'This will end in a little man!' She afterward went so far as to predict that it would end in a little man whose mind would be below the average. Within a month," said Mrs. Wilfer, deepening her voice, "within a month I first saw R. W., my husband; within a year I married him. It is natural for the mind to recall these dark coincidences on the present day."

Good Advice About Dress.

It is important to know what point of dress to emphasize. For instance, one may expend a large sum on a gown, and if the shoes are shabby or ill made, the gloves worn and the bonnet lacks style, the gown is entirely thrown away. But the gown may be no longer new; it must now be carefully brushed and well put on, the collar and cuffs, or other neck and wrist trimmings, must be in perfect order, the boots well made and well blacked, even if not new, the gloves faultless and the bonnet neat and stylish. The effect is of a well-dressed woman; no man, and very few women, perceive that the dress is not a new one.—Mrs. T. W. Dewing in Harper's Magazine.

The Daily Republican.

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 20, 1882.

R. K. HAMSHER. J. R. MOSHER.

HAMSHER & MOSHER, Propri't'rs.

DECATUR, ILLINOIS.

Society and political circles in Denver are just now profoundly agitated by the suit commenced against Lieut. Gov. Tabor by his wife, who sues for a separate maintenance, and $50,000 per year. She alleges in her complaint that her husband has deserted her, not having even visited her since January, 1881, and that she has been compelled to keep boarders in order to meet the household expenses, he having ceased to provide for her wants at the time mentioned. She enumerates in her complaint the various properties owned by her husband, giving the value of each, the aggregate being over nine millions of dollars.

The legislature of Missouri met in special session yesterday. It is confidently asserted that one of the chief features of the session will be the attempt to censure Gov. Crittenden for the part he took in opening the doors of the heavenly kingdom to that stalwart Missouri Democrat, Jesse James. The Bourbons of the state do not propose to have their leaders "removed" in any such way, and stontly proclaim their belief that Crittenden has gone over to the "Radicals."

The high-toned circles of the city of Denver, Col., have the biggest kind of a sensation. The wife of Lieutenant Governor Tabor, worth his millions, has instituted a suit for separate maintenance, charging gross marital infidelity on his part.

The crank who recently shot at Queen Victoria has been adjudged not guilty, on the ground of insanity.

Mrs. Ex-President Hayes is visiting in Chicago.

Disgusted Legislators.

A performance of the "School for Scandal", in the opera house of Madison, Wis., the night last week, was diversified by the appearance in the parquette of the sergeant-at-arms of the state assembly, who began to pick out a member here and there and notify them that there had been a "call of the house and they must go. The rest of the audience laughed when they saw a bald headed legislator led reluctant to the door, especially if he was observed first to expostulate earnestly with the officer, then grow red in the face and gesticulate fiercely, and finally get up and go out in a towering rage.

The new secretary of the interior, Mr. Teller, is a tall, slightly stoop-shouldered man. He is always dressed in a baggy suit of black. His face is very long, his forehead is extremely high, and the length of his face is made to appear much greater from the fact that his scanty brown hair is combed up very high over his tall forehead into a sort of tuft or peak, while the lower part of his face is lengthened out by a long, sharp beard. He has a sharp, shrill voice and a monotonous manner in speaking.

The Arlington estate, at Washington, Gen. Lee's old homestead, and for the recovery of which his heirs have brought suit, contains about 1,100 acres, and is valued at $700,000. The title set up is derived from a sale in default of payment of taxes under the act for the collection of direct taxes in insurrectionary states, passed in 1862 and 1863. It is also claimed that this sale, in which the United States became purchasers, is invalid, because the commissioners under the act, after the property was advertised for sale, declined to receive the taxes except from the owner in person. In the court below Gen. G. W. C. Lee brought suit in ejectment of the parties then in possession, and obtained a judgment in his favor, and the case was then appealed to the supreme court.

"The History of the Devil is the caption the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle places over a report of a lecture recently delivered before the "Progressive Society," of that city, by Prof. Pfaefflinn. He declares that the evil spirits of the Persian and East Indians became the devil of the Jews as a result of the Babylonian captivity. He also argued that the belief in Satan is waning, and in this he is right; yet it must be confessed that there are indubitable evidences in plenty that the "Old Scratch," or something, is still in things generally, on this mundane sphere.

McLean, the would-be regicide, since his imprisonment at Reading, has evinced concern at his situation by declaring that he "never attempted or wished to injure the queen, or even one hair of the head of her most gracious majesty, Queen Victoria." He prays that the queen may live for many years, and that when she is called from this "vale of tears" she may find a home in the realms of the blest.

Kansas City, Mo., April 19.—Robert Ford, the slayer of Jesse James, was taken to Richmond, Ray county, this morning, to await the action of the authorities on the charge of killing Wood Hite, one of the outlaw gang. The boys assert that the governor promised them immunity of all past crimes, but to a reporter Crittenden indignantly denies this. He would not say, however, that he might not pardon them. The governor says he believes Frank James is dead.

The Weekly Republican Continues to Boom.

Although the Weekly Republican has had a steady growth ever since its first number was issued, it has never received new subscribers so rapidly as within the past two months. Since our last list was published we have received over two hundred new subscribers, and the regular edition of the Weekly Republican is now TWO THOUSAND COPIES—and the list still continues to grow. The people of Macon county evidently appreciate a good newspaper. Below we give the names of new subscribers and renewals since our last list appeared, more than half the number being new subscribers:

President Arthur.

Quincy Whig.

If we are to accept the opinion of a Democratic paper for it, Mr. Arthur has so far got on very well in the discharge of his presidential duties. Not that he has suited everybody, Democrats or Republicans; to have done that he must necessarily have been something more than human. Very likely he has done some things that might have been done better, and perhaps some things that he might better not have done at all. But then the same might, and the same would have been said of Garfield, or of any other man holding the presidential office. It amounts simply to this that no man is perfect, and if it were possible to have a perfect president, it would be quite impossible for him to suit imperfect people. So long as there are different parties, and differing factions in each party, an angel from heaven could not possibly satisfy the people who make up those parties and factions of parties. And Mr. Arthur is not an angel. As for that matter he does not pretend to be angelic or infallible. But he is nevertheless a man of capacity, and a man of as much capacity as nature usually endows presidents with. And we have had some men for presidents upon whom nature bestowed a good deal of ability. As suggested by the paper we started to quote from, namely, the St. Louis Republican, Mr. Arthur could never have cut the figure he has without a large share of ability. He has, besides, in the language of the Republican, the "shrewdness and tact which belong to the trained politician and cultured man of the world. He knows when to talk and when to keep silent, and he does very little talking. He is as reticent as Grant used to be, but for a different reason and in a different way. He has decided opinions and a strong will, partially concealed under a dignified and graceful demeanor. The gloved hand has a grip of its own, and there are some indications of claws. The still waters run much deeper than many suspect. From the day Garfield was shot until he died, Mr. Arthur behaved with admirable taste and discretion. The ordeal was a most trying one, but he was fully equal to it. He withdrew as far as possible from the public gaze, and neither by word or deed, hint or suggestion, interfered in the least with the management of affairs he was soon to control. He did nothing, said nothing, allowed nothing to be said or done for him, to which the most unfriendly critic could object. His conduct was absolutely faultless, and, consequently, when the time came for him to step to the highest place, even those who most bitterly regretted the change of rulers had no just ground for complaint. He had effectually spiked the guns which otherwise would have opened fire on him at once. This freedom from immediate attack secured him the necessary leisure and mental equanimity to mature his plans for future operation." And whatever his future operations may be, the manner in which he bore himself in the trying ordeal that followed the assassination of President Garfield, stamped him as a man of consummate tact and discretion; and those qualities could not have been displayed as he displayed them except in conjunction with a high order of common sense, and consequently of wisdom. As we have said, he will very likely do some things that will not suit everybody; but that his administration, on the whole, will be such as to reflect credit on the republic, there is no good reason to doubt.

MORE DETAILS

Of the Great Tornado in Missouri.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—Bently and Jones, the revivalists, visited the Guiteau jail and prayed with him. This is the first movement of this kind, except one by a colored minister. Guiteau welcomed them, but evidently didn't appreciate their reference to his approaching end.

The president's message relating to the levees of the Mississippi river is regarded as an extremely shrewd stroke to gain strength in the south, and will be the key-note for the Republicans in congress to manifest a liberal policy toward the south.

The president took his children to Annapolis, Md., to-day, to view the monument to Commander Herndon, the father of the late Mrs. Arthur. Captain Herndon, it will be remembered, was the commander of the vessel Central America, and lost his life by heroically remaining with his vessel until she sank, Sept. 12, 1857.

Officials of the German government here are gratified at the information that their government is about to lay a cable between Emden, in Germany, and Valentia, in Ireland, to connect with the Anglo-American cable and which will be used for American business.

The report of the committee on the Garfield sickness is commented upon as quite satisfactory. It does not include the questionable expenses of congressmen to the funeral. This has been already paid in the bill granting Sergeant-at-Arms Thompson $8,000 for expenses of the trip.

Mr. Robeson, under the caucus resolution, is preparing plans for pushing legislation, taking up the most important bills and pushing them through.

The Mississippi valley Democrats are outspoken in their praise of the president's message on the Mississippi valley.

The state department has information that the Chili authorities have given notice to officers of United States vessels at Callao, that they will only be permitted to receive mail by British vessels, and not by regular mail packets from Panama. This action is regarded as a very strange proceeding, and can hardly be other than an intentional insult.

Bills will be reported to the house by the committee on post offices favoring the reduction of postage to 2 cents, but they will hardly pass.

A bill will probably be reported from the ways and means committee favoring a tax of 10 cents per pound on oleomargarine.

Washington, April 19.—The majority report on the bill reported from the select committee to audit the expenses of the late president's illness and funeral, sets forth: "That after giving such attention to the subject as its importance demands, your committee are of the opinion that congress may properly and legally assume the expenses attendant upon the illness and burial of the late president upon the ground that he was stricken down while he was, and because he was, in charge of his duties as commander in-chief of the army and navy, and as chief executive officer of the nation. Many claims have been rejected, not all of which were without merit. * * * others have been allowed part only, and all have been rigidly scrutinized, so much so that your committee feel authorized to state that those claims herein presented for payment are correct and just." The report refers to the "grave responsibilities, the assiduous care and untiring devotion and long-continued services of the surgeons and attendants," and makes honorable mention of the services of Dr. Smith Townsend, Dr. Charles B. Purvis and Surgeon Gen. Wales, of the army and navy, and of Dr. Nathan S. Lincoln, who were called immediately after the shooting occurred, and says: "They did all that science and skill could accomplish towards the patient's relief, and to produce a reaction from the shock." Commendable mention is also made of General Swaim, Col. Rockwell, J. Stanley Brown and C. O. Rockwell, who, the report says, devoted their whole time during the president's illness to his comfort and service. The committee concludes by urging the passage of the bill agreed upon by the majority.

The report of the minority says: "We do not object to the payment by the general government of the funeral expenses of the late president, who was stricken down in the performance of his duties, and because of his occupying a public station. Our objection to the report grows out of the recommendation for payment for the services of physicians and surgeons who attended the late president. We are perfectly willing to concede that a liberal compensation should be allowed these physicians and surgeons, a compensation in excess even of what it was possible for any of the medical attendants to have earned in their ordinary practice during the time, but it seems that the sums recommended to be paid by the majority of the committee are excessive."

Among the claims passed and the allowances made, are the following: To Mrs. Garfield, $50,000, less the amount paid the late president on account of salary; Dr. Bliss, $25,000; Dr. Agnew, $15,000; Dr. Hamilton, $15,000; Dr. Reyburn, $10,000; Dr. Boynton, $10,000; Dr. Susan Edson, $10,000; Wm. J. Crump, steward, $3,000; R. S. Jennings, for cooling apparatus, $1,000, navy department expenses for fitting up cooling apparatus, and the expenses of the Marine Band, $2,782; Wm. R. Speare, undertaker, $1,835; C. A. Benedict, coffin, etc., $887; the Independent Ice Company, $1,516; H. L. Crawford, for street sprinkling, $179; C. J. Jones, for board, carriages, etc., at Elberon, $1,092; C. F. Schmidt, 50 cents, and J. W. Atwood 75 cents.

The employes of the executive mansion during the illness of President Garfield, thirty-nine in number, are allowed additional pay ranging from $375 to $120.

Sedalia, Mo., April 19.—Further particulars from Brownsville are meagre. Up to half-past four this morning the body of M. E. White, who was missing, had not been found. The last seen of him alive he was standing in Kelly's drug store, and he is supposed to be buried in the ruins. Twenty-eight business buildings were completely wrecked. The section house, which was about 100 yards from the depot, was blown across the track and riddled to atoms. Mrs. John Halpin and six children were occupants of the structure at the time, and they were carried with it and suffered injury more or less. Mrs. Halpin's right arm is broken, her scalp lacerated in several places, and her shoulder dislocated. A number of farm-houses in the vicinity of Brownsville are reported to have been blown down.

The total number of persons wounded and injured foot up over 150.

The City Hotel block is a complete wreck, nothing being left but a pile of bricks, mortar and debris. The body of a farmer named Matt Williams was taken from the ruins at 1:30 this afternoon. His head was mashed to a pulp.

Chicago, April 19.—The San Francisco Chronicle's Washington special says: Cannon was wild to-night over the action of the house in declaring the seat for which he was an applicant, vacant. In an interview with a Chronicle correspondent he said: "The whole thing is plainly unconstitutional and the house was driven to its action by passion and prejudice. So far as I am personally concerned it matters but little, but it is a great outrage upon the people of Utah, who are defrauded out of their delegate, which is the only way they can get representation in the council of the nation. It is no surprise, however, for I expected it as soon as I saw how the election committee was made up. There was no staying the current and it had to come. When time comes for reflection all will see how the injury was done." Cannon and Campbell will have their expenses paid as also their mileage.

London, April 19.—The trial of McLean, for attempting to kill the Queen, began to-day. The evidence for the prosecution went simply to prove that McLean fired the shot. The witnesses were not cross examined. Montague Williams, in opening for the prisoner, made insanity the ground of defense. He said it could be shown that McLean had had a homicidal mania for years and had imagined the English people were against him and also that it could be proved that McLean had been confined in the asylum. Superintendents Salisbury and Broodmor of the asylums, testified to McLean's insanity, and that they believed him incapable to appreciate the nature or quality of any of his acts. Williams asked for an acquittal on the ground of insanity. Lord Chief Justice Coleredge summed up the case and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity.

St. Louis, April 19.—A special from Brownsville, the scene of the tornado, says the work of clearing away the debris will require several days. Two more dead bodies are exhumed, and it is thought there is still a woman and child beneath the ruins. E. G. Biggerstaff, who was caught up from the street and hurled against a wall, but escaped uninjured, says while in the whirling vortex of the cloud he heard terrible cracking sounds and could see myriads of sparks, evidently electrical. The storm lasted but a minute, and in that time laid waste everything in its track.

New York, April 19.—There is a rumor that the death of Haverly, the theater manager, is reported from London.

SILVERWARE

CHEAP FOR A FEW DAYS.

We are about to REFIT OUR ENTIRE STORE. New Wall Cases will be put in on both sides, in order to give us a great deal more show case room than we now have.

Our new Cases will be ready April 15th; our old ones are sold and part of them shipped. We have either to sell off all CLOCKS and SILVERWARE, or else pile them up in the back room for three weeks.

We therefore will offer a discount of 10 per cent from the price of ALL CLOCKS, CASTERS, ICE PITCHERS, CAKE BASKETS, TEA SETS and all kinds of SILVERWARE bought of us between now and April 15th, 1882.

This 10 per cent discount will be given off from prices already lower than can be found in Decatur. If you think of getting a Clock, or any article of Silverware soon, it will pay you to buy now.

When our store is completed, we will be better able to display lots of goods we have been obliged to keep in drawers and the safe, and intend to enlarge our already large variety of goods.

IN the county court before Judge Greer, on Wednesday evening, Mrs. Barbara Tedrow, aged 52, was adjudged insane. She will be taken to Jacksonville in due time and will receive skilled medical treatment at the Illinois Hospital for the Insane.

THERE are plenty of people who actually fret themselves to death. Beware of the habit of complaining. It will grow on you and make your life a sour one to you and render you disagreeable to others. Cultivate cheerfulness. It will make you feel better and healthier. Let the world wag as it will, you won't do any good by fretting.

THE report is given, with considerable show of truth, that Patsey Devine, recently sentenced at Clinton to be hanged, and Lizzie Barton, who has just got out of the penitentiary at the end of a 12-months' term for horse stealing, had fallen deeply in love while they were in jail together, and it is alleged that they are engaged to be married.

The New City Council.

There will be a special meeting of the present city council at the city hall to-morrow evening, when a committee will be appointed to canvass the vote cast for aldermen on the 18th instant. The names of the successful candidates have already been published in these columns, and when they are formally declared elected by the council, they will be at liberty to take their seats in 10 days and assume the management of city affairs. Mayor Waggoner will preside over the deliberations of the body. He was seen by a REPUBLICAN representative this forenoon. He claims to be the legal mayor of Decatur by the provisions of the old charter and under the general incorporation act, which says mayors of cities can only be elected on odd years. It is not believed that the vote cast for Mr. Lake for mayor on Tuesday will be canvassed by the committee, in which case, if Mr. Lake insists on his alleged rights, he will cause a writ of mandamus to be issued compelling the council to count the ballots ignored. It is not understood that Mr. Lake, if he fights for the place, will do so simply to harrass Mr. Waggoner and the council, but simply to test a question of law on the point at issue, which in all probability will eventually be decided by the Supreme Court, which will not convene until sometime during the month of January, 1883.

IT WAS a large and decidedly appreciative audience that greeted the appearance of the famed celebrities of the American and European stages, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Knight, at the opera house last evening. This talented pair—the former an emotional German actor and the latter a sprightly, vivacious actress and vocalist—supported by a fine combination, on two former occasions presented "Otto, the German" in Decatur. Last night the play was a new production by Bronson Howard, entitled "Baron Rudolph," in which Mr. Knight is afforded an opportunity of appearing first as a tippler, next as an American tramp, and last as a German Baron in possession of a vast fortune. The piece is full of sparkling wit, fine sentiment, and the tableaux were such that called forth rapturous applause. Mrs. Knight's costumes were rich and beautiful, and stood the test of the opera glasses leveled at them. The support throughout was faultless. The entertainment was thoroughly delightful.

MR. JAMES W. HUDDLESTON, the manager of the Decatur shipping and supply house of the Parlin & Orendorff Agricultural Manufacturing Company, is now in possession of a substantial and very handsome delivery wagon, built by Wayne Bros. The wagon is quite stylish in appearance, and is a good advertisement of itself for the proprietors of the "Keystone Works." Mr. Huddleston uses it principally in transferring implements from his extensive warehouse on Mason street to the various railway depots.

MARSHAL HEWES got home this morning from Indianapolis, whither he went with Pat Ward to take possession of the latter's span of $400 horses that was stolen from the hitching rack near the city park, in September last. The parties who confessed to stealing the horses and located the animals that they might be recovered, are now in the Indiana state penitentiary for stealing horses in the Hoosier state. Mr. Ward got into Decatur this forenoon with his horses, for whose recovery a reward of $75 was offered.

IN all probability the 1882 banquet and reception, to be given by the Decatur High School Alumni, will be held at the New Deming Hotel. The finance committee is making every possible effort to accomplish this most desirable end. The banquet will be given on Friday evening, June 2d, and plates will be provided for 150 guests. The annual commencement exercises will be held at the opera house as usual, commencing at 9 a. m., June 2d. Robert Rogan will be among the graduates. He will be the first colored student to graduate from the high school in Decatur.

A MAJORITY of fruit raisers in Central Illinois, judging from the tone of their expressions in the public press, are of the opinion that the recent frost, was on the whole, a good thing. It will probably prevent an over-crop, which always leaves the trees in such an exhausted condition that they do not recuperate for at least two seasons. It is no lasting benefit to a community, for either purchasers or consumers, to have fruit trees or berry plants bear beyond natural limits.

THE ladies of Decatur are now aware of the fact that Mrs. Einstein's emporium of fashion, at 28 East Main street, is the acknowledged headquarters for the most stylish millinery goods in the greatest variety, where also may be found all the very latest novelties in season, notion goods in profusion, ladies' ready made underwear and spring and summer hats and bonnets trimmed to order. Fashionable dressmaking and hat and bonnet trimming are among the specialties at Mrs. Einstein's popular establishment. Don't fail to call at No. 28 East Main street, see the goods and learn prices before purchasing elsewhere. apr4d&wtf

Real Estate.

We would call the attention of purchasers to the new Brenneman addition to Decatur. These lots, ten in number, front east on North Union, and lie between King and Marietta streets. CASH PRIZE SHOOTING.

Marksmen Ranging at Birds and Balls at the Fair Grounds.

The second grand shooting tournament, given under the management of the Decatur Shooting Club, for cash prizes aggregating $500, is in progress at the fair grounds to-day, and there is a big attendance of crack shots from Bement, Clinton, St. Louis, Moawequa, Sullivan, Dalton City, and other places of more or less note.

The prizes are $250 for rifle shooting and $250 for shot gun shooting at live and clay pigeons and glass balls, thrown by straight and revolving traps. There will probably be contests this afternoon for special purses; also a sweepstakes contest for team shooting.

Dinner was served on the grounds to-day, and hacks carried interested parties to and from the scene of the shooting during the day. The tournament is under the general management of Mr. Geo. P. Blume, president of the Decatur club, assisted by Secretary J. H. Durfee and others. The result of the contest will be announced officially to-morrow.

Will Catch a Big Crowd.

The Hyde & Behman Star Specialty Company, which will appear here on Wednesday evening of next week, is a good one. It will catch a big crowd. The programme presents a number of favorite stars of the variety stage, prominent among them being Watson and Ellis, who have again united their fortunes. The exhibition of Royal Marionettes, by John and Louisa Tills, is the first and one of the most enjoyable incidents of the programme. Then follow in order Mr. Alfred Liston, a most skillful performer on the xylophone; Miss Clara Moore, with songs and character changes; the Mortell brothers, two of the best parlor acrobats on the stage; W. T. Byant and Lizzie Richmond, in a sketch; Watson and Ellis, in their familiar German specialty; the Mortells, on bicycles; Miss St. George Hussy, in the impersonation of male Irish characters. The performance concludes with a farcial piece entitled "Wrinkles," introducing Watson and Ellis, W. T. Bryant and Clara Moore. Popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

A Golden Gift.

This (Thursday) forenoon the proceeds of the Madame Fry vocal and instrumental concert given at the opera house on Tuesday evening, April 18th, were formally presented by Rev. J. P. Dimmitt, pastor of the First M. E. church, and Messrs. F. W. Anderson and Dr. J. N. Bills to Rev. M. L. Laws, the invalid pastor of the Baptist church, as a slight token of the high regard and esteem in which he and his family are held by the people of this community. The gift was $150 in gold, and it was received by the minister, whose gratitude could not be expressed in words. Rev. Laws has been confined to his room by illness during several months past, and his condition has been a matter of much solicitude among the members of his congregation and our people generally. It is now hoped that he will recover sufficiently in a few weeks so that he may be able to go south to recuperate and perhaps regain his failing health.

TO OUR KIND FRIENDS OF DECATUR.

Allow me, in this public manner, to express my grateful recognition of the kindness constantly shown to me and to my afflicted husband, Rev. M. L. Laws, both heretofore and this day, in the gift of $150 in gold. In this ovation of thanks my husband desires to join me with sincere considerations of love and gratitude, both to the members of his own church and to the pastors and members of the other denominations, and to the citizens generally of Decatur. We jointly beg you to accept our affectionate consideration of your sympathy in our affliction.

Very truly,
MRS. GERTRUDE A. LAWS.
DECATUR, ILL., April 20, 1882.

WE hear and see patent medicines recommended every day by the press and by druggists. We have become so used to that sort of thing that we pay but little attention to it; but when a medicine comes to our attention that is as marvellous in its effects and which becomes as suddenly popular as has Fleury's Wahoo Tonic, we are compelled to notice it, not only in justice to the merits of the article itself, but also for the benefit of our readers and patrons, a majority of whom have, perhaps, been long seeking in vain for that very thing. Over one thousand bottles of this Tonic have been sold in Springfield in the last two months, and its effects have been wonderful, far surpassing the expectations of the proprietors, even. It has at once taken the first rank as a specific for Liver and Kidney Complaints, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Skin Diseases, etc., etc. It is palatable to the taste, mild in its action, certain in its effects, and has always succeeded where other remedies have failed. We cheerfully recommend it to our afflicted friends. All our druggists have it, and they will endorse what we say, but the best endorsement and one that is certain to follow if you try the medicine will be your own.

Henry Ward Beecher denies that he intends to retire from the ministry when he is 70 years old, which he will be on June 24th, 1883. He says that his father, Lyman Beecher, continued to preach until after he was eighty, and he would like to do the same. His health was never better than it is now. He had said that he didn't care to live beyond eighty, but might change his mind as he neared that point.

HOW LONG SHALL GIRLS BE COURTED?

Ought engagements to be long or short? It has been often said that nothing helps so much to steady a young man as being engaged to a girl whom he loves, and for whom he works to prepare a suitable home. The solicitude of David Copperfield's friend "Traddles" to buy bits of furniture—flower pots and such like—for the house where he and his betrothed were to dwell, was a pretty thing, and much to be commended; but, on the other hand, it is undeniable that long engagements have their drawbacks, especially if the young people see much of each other during the period of probation. In this case much of the bloom is taken off the poetry of courtship, and no less gilding off the prospects of marriage. There may be a great deal to say against the policy of weddings in haste, but young people who take each other for better or worse, in all the illusion of mutual trust and admiration, go through a time of ecstasy unknown to those who marry quite rationally.

The honeymoons of such pairs are halcyon epochs to be remembered all life long, and if the after period seems dull and loveless by comparison, yet it is something to have lived for however a brief time, up to the high ideal of felicity. Besides there is no little sweetness in having faced the first hardships of life together. If a young couple have to encounter poverty, and if they conquer it side by side, lightening all their labors by sharing them and diminishing their troubles by mutual consolation and encouragement, they forge links which must bind their hearts closer together. I like to see a snug young man stack up money in a bank against his wedding day, while his future wife looks on complacently at the operation as who would say: "Thomas must earn a good many more pounds before he can furnish a house good enough to lodge me," but I like still more to see a young husband and wife who have feathered their nest together.

It is pleasant to hear a smiling woman remark: "We had nothing at all when we married, but see how cozy we have made our house." This means there has been cheerful hard work on the one side, as well as thrift and self denial on the other; in fact, union. After all, the yoke of marriage is an apparatus that should sit on two pairs of shoulders, and there is nothing very seemly in seeing a girl wait to wear her own part of it until it has been nicely padded and quilted with satin.—Augusta News.

CHEAP GOODS are the result of judicious purchases from first hands, and the largest sales with the least expense. That we have attained this end is a pretty well established fact. And though we call attention in our advertisements to special articles, there are no departments and no articles in departments, from the smallest to the largest, that will not bear the same scrutiny. We hold that merchants are as much bound to adhere to the truth in their advertisements as farmers or mechanics in their business transactions; and that misrepresentations are resorted to where there is no merit, and for the purpose of deceiving the plain unsuspecting class, who can least afford the deception, which robs them of their dues. Goods constantly change in styles and prices, so that the most experienced merchants find it difficult to determine values; and the seeming artlessness which invests the ordinary buyer, or the "intelligent public" with a knowledge of merchandise, that nine merchants in ten do not possess, may be very flattering indeed, but this observation is only made to lull persons into security in order to practice a still greater deception. There is no law to punish dealers for representing their purchases as coming direct from importers and manufacturers, when the facts are against them. Nor for giving special reasons for marking down goods, after six weeks untiring labor, TWO HUNDRED PER CENT. BELOW COST. But the dealer who indulges in such misrepresentations on paper will do so over the counter; consequently to show courtesy where it does not belong, or to AFFECT a regard for the integrity of all competitors might seem very magnanimous were it not for these palpable evidences to the contrary. We invite the most critical investigation to what we say and do in DRY GOODS and CARPETS; also to every other article of merchandise composing our stock.

A Bug of Gigantic Enterprise.

An Australian bug introduced in British South Africa four years ago, along with a plant for the botanical gardens at Cape Town, has multiplied so as to threaten all the vegetation. They attack even the largest trees, and many handsome oaks in the grounds of Government house at Cape Town, said to be a hundred years old, were reduced to such a state that they had to be cut down. It is particularly hostile to fruit trees, and on a single estate destroyed 600 orange trees, thereby causing enormous loss to the owner.

Germany Ready for War.

To the enormous mass of artillery already in her possession Germany is constantly adding more. Since 1871 Prussia alone has added 2,000 guns to her stock. Many of them are of the heaviest caliber. The destination of a large portion of the new guns is the fortress on the Russian frontier. In each of these strongholds there are great parks of field and siege guns ready for immediate action in case of war.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

For diabetes, ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

For sale by all dealers.

To any person suffering from indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaints, kidney complaints, lung troubles, skin disease or general debility arising from any cause whatever, who purchase a bottle of FLEURY'S WA-HOO TONIC, takes it according to directions (once each day at bed-time,) for one month and says benefit has not been received by its use the money will be refunded upon presentation of the bottle. Each bottle contains one quart of medicine and costs one dollar. It is unquestionably the very best tonic, blood purifier and general system renovator ever produced, and is purely vegetable. Try it, and you will be astonished at its wonderful effect upon the human system. Nine hundred and fifteen bottles have been sold at retail in the city of Springfield during the past nine weeks and all say who have tried it—"It is the best medicine we have ever used."

A POPULAR TONIC

For Weak Lungs and Consumption.

No preparation ever introduced to the American public, for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitution, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the indorsements of physicians or patients as the celebrated "Tolu, Rock and Rye." The repeated and continued sales of the article everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country, attesting the stimulating, tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and can be adduced to convince the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic virtues. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted or pining away with pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tolu, Rock and Rye.
